A Panel Discussion on Fisher v. University of Texas: The Impact of Race-Conscious Admissions on the Asian-American Community

APABA-LA is proud to present its annual Asian Pacific American Heritage Month Event: A Panel Discussion on Fisher v. University of Texas: The Impact of Race-Conscious Admissions on the Asian-American Community. Though Fisher did not directly deal with Asian-Americans, the issue of race-conscious admissions (also known as "affirmative action") and the experience of the Asian-American community has come to the fore in this case. Both proponents and antagonists of race-conscious admissions programs have referred to the Asian-American experience in support of their arguments, and indeed, Asian-American groups have submitted positions on both sides of the issue.

This panel discussion will explore the impact of race-conscious admissions to the Asian-American community and to diversity, generally. The Supreme Court will soon opine on this issue, and the panel will examine the nuances of how Fisher may impact our communities.

Panelists:

- Susan Wilbur, Ph.D.,
Director of Undergraduate Admissions, UCLA
- Laboni Hoq, Esq., Asian Pacific American Legal Center
- Albert Giang, Esq., Caldwell Leslie & Proctor, PC

Moderator: Mike Eng, former California Assemblymember and Los Angeles County Community College Trustee-elect
